PURDY'S IDEAS OF JAPAN.

Hilo, March 20.—J. B. Purdy tells interestingly of his trip to Japan and the city of Vladivostok. Mr. Purdy is well known in Hilo, having been master mechanic for the Hilo Railroad Co. He finds no place with a better climate, or more attractive than Hilo; though he goes soon to Honolulu to accept a position offered. He says the opportunities for foreigners in Japan are few, in business, or the professions. The Japanese have wonderful ability as imitators and have adopted all foreign, especially American, ideas, so readily and fully that there is no competing with them. They are a superior race physically and can endure much hardship. The country is thickly populated and the streets of the larger cities are filled with a mass of people, so that on occasions, as on the great holiday, January 1, it is impossible to get about. In parades, four-wheeled carts drawn by hand are much used; pennants fly everywhere and imitation cherry blossoms, the national flower, apparently, are omnipresent.

Mr. Purdy was in Vladivostok, the Pacific port for Russia's railway, in January. The harbor is large and secure and the bay on which the city is situated, as well as the slope from the bay, appear similar to those of Hilo. The harbor was nearly ice-bound, ice-creeper and egress were made possible for ships by the use of powerful ice-breaking rams. Mr. Purdy drove a double team over sixteen miles of ice near the city. The business part of Vladivostok and the wharves were burned a few months ago during riots that occurred. Much of interest for the tourist was found on the trip.—Tribune.
